D) From Our Chief Functionary & Secretary's Desk-

Mr. Fakir Charan Das, our secretary –cum-Chief functionary and founder director of SHELTER in-spite- of belongs to a worthy big and renowned traditional family of Purbakhanda Village in Niali block of Cuttack district of Odisha state in India, his childhood was very suffering due to division in old traditional family and poverty. He had suffered a lot during his schooling and college education. He was reading in Niali High School, SCS College, Puri ,B.J.B College, Bhubaneswar and LLB under Utkal University, Odisha. Then He joined in his profession as an Advocate. As he had seen poverty and suffering from very near, dedicated his whole life for social work in spite of his own assignment and occupation for poverty eradication, child care and development, SC & ST promotion, Women empowerment and rural development. Therefore he promisingly founded SHELTER(Society of Health Education Legal Training and Emergency Rehabilitation) in the year 2000 with a dream and little or no finances, set out on a path of establishing a family counseling Centre at Bhubaneswar. The unique model of the counseling facility and the passion to reach out to people in need soon led to an domestic violence and Parivarik Mahila lok Adalat program. Ever since shelter society's initiatives have spread rapidly across the state of odisha. Since then shelter has been dedicating to serve with credibility for fifteen years endeavored to make an impact. Working with the people from the vulnerable and weaker sections of society, in the sector for child right, Women empowerment and rural entitlement made a difference for children who would have otherwise been child laborers, is the qualitative change demonstrated.

These and many other proven track records of SHELTER, not only establishes its credibility but also has sown the seeds of change and impact. SHELTER is extremely happy for this performance and hopes to continue in the same spirit for years to come, bringing solace and prosperity to vulnerable. Theories are fine but unless theories take practical avenues of demonstrated results, the theory, remains theory only. Wish you all the Readers, Partners, staff, a very happy and prosperous future God Bless!

About us- The SHELTER society is a Odisha based organization dedicated to empowering and standing up for individuals in ODISHA state. For over 20 years we have helped educate citizens and empower them to fight back against government over reach. We do this primarily in two ways, education and litigation. We provide non-partisan information and training to individuals and groups about their rights, the impact of laws and core principles that define our country, free markets, limited government and individual responsibility. When appropriate we also stand up for groups or individuals in court to ensure that they are defended from government over reach. We have been treated as non-profit educational research organization. What sets us apart at the SHELTER Society is our determination to make rigorous, non-partisan research accessible to voters, not just politicians. We envision a day when opportunity, responsible self-governance, and free markets flourish in Odisha state because its citizens understand and cherish the principles from which freedom is derived. Our primary research areas are budget, taxes, education, labor, elections, property rights, and citizenship. We publish, teach, speak, testify, and occasionally litigate when public information is withheld or when constitutionally protected rights have been trampled. We also are building an active online audience through audio and video podcasts, films, blogging, and investigative journalism. We exist because the idea of shelter society. we specialize in helping people understand that distinction. Our research and our voice are underwritten by supporters. If you would like more information about the SHELTER Society, please call or email. If you would like to join our mailing list or become a member of the SHELTER Society.

Our Motivation-SHELTER sees its role in promoting sustainable changes by supporting voluntary efforts at the grass root level by setting up issue based institutions, enhancing capacities and focusing on motivating and training youth for nation building. To enable every person have a house to live and to identify and work with the economically and socially deprived individuals starting with children. They can become educated, skilled and aware and enable every person to be self-reliant and enjoy a healthy, dignified and sustainable quality of life. To act as a resource to centre to collaborate with other agencies – governmental or non-governmental, as well as suitably intervene in policy formulation for enabling shelter, cloth, food , Health care, education, Legal awareness, vocational training and social security to Poor, Needy, disable, distress, women & Children through establishing small industries, promoting Agriculture, Planting Tree and protecting Animal life for all round development of society.

With a mission is to advance individual liberty, free enterprise, and limited, accountable government.

We envision a day when opportunity, responsible self-governance and free markets flourish in odisha State because its citizens understand and cherish the principles from which freedom is derived.

Our mission springs from our firm belief in three fundamental principles.

Liberty: The foundations of a free society are human liberty and personal responsibility. To sustain liberty, the people must choose to understand it, recognize threats to it and protect it.

Free Enterprise: Human needs are best met in a competitive marketplace where creativity is unleashed, property rights are protected and contracts are enforced.

Accountable Government: Human liberty and free enterprise can be sustained only when government's power is limited to its constitutionally defined role and is accountable to the people it serves to enhance access to quality health care & treatment for people living with different problems through a commitment to increasing awareness, treatment, care, support, advocacy, expanded linkages & networking and create a platform for best practice and cross learning.

Internships

Shelter society offers internships to academically accomplished students of finance and accounting, social sciences, management and law. Students are mentored by senior management. Internships at SFCS are a significant investment of senior management time so are rigorous in the selection process and project work.

Please write to dasshelter@yahoo.co.in with 'internship' in the subject line.

Interns and Volunteers :- Interns and Volunteers are a very important part of our team and they also act as Shelter Ambassadors. 25 Interns and 16 volunteers have been associated this year and worked at various projects of Shelter. Out of 25 interns, 20 were from different districts of Odisha and 4 were from other states. Likewise, 10 Odiya volunteers and 5 other state Volunteers got associated with us in the last year starting from April, 2012 till March, 2013. Corporates like Nestle, Genpact and Inner Space Consulting have also been volunteering their services for Organizational Development and Child Counseling and training.

Volunteers-Shelter Society attracts volunteers from all over the world. Meet some of our past volunteers and find out about their work with Shelter here.

Young Shelter – the voice of youth :- Another new initiative which was taken to involve the youth of the organization to be an active body in decision making where staff in the age bracket of less than 30 years were brought together. The group would be involved proactively in discussing about the organization and eventually also chalking a career path for themselves in the organization. The group calls themselves ‘Young Shelterian’. The bracket of 30 years was kept keeping in mind the average age of 35 years.

Talent acquisition:-Shelter has an established brand image which is clearly evident in our recruitment process. To quote some figures -As on 31st March, 2013, Shelter has on board a team of 16 people as against 46 in the beginning of the year. This includes regular employees, part time consultants, social entrepreneurs and volunteers. The impact of recession in the beginning of the year did not leave Shelter untouched, but we made a conscious decision to work together to fight the same. Last year our take on employees are from fields of finance, social work, teaching, medicine, counsellors, IT, special education, beauty culture, MBA and fashion designing.

Recruitment system:-We also introduced a competency based recruitment system where the candidates were interviewed based on 12 competencies identified in the performance management process so as to be able to establish a common footing for all processes in Shelter. Lead time (time from the date of creation of vacancy to the date of closing the position), reduced from 52 days (last year) to 49 days. In addition, this year we initiated a process to gauge the reaction of candidates to our selection processes and to promote Shelter Employer Brand Image. 82.5 percent candidates expressed that our interview processes were unbiased. Some of the comments from our candidates were:

- “Interview was a good procedure and it got over soon”.
- “All workers are playing an effective role and working environment is up to the mark”.
- “Staff were cooperative and good and the quality and standard of interview was good”.
- “I like the cooperation of interviewers. They have given me chance to speak”.
- “It was very lengthy but I enjoyed giving the interview”.

Learning and development initiatives:- In order to keep pace with the ever increasing challenges of professional life, Shelter employees are encouraged to attend programmes which will build their capacities to perform better. Last year shelter employees attended 9 trainings and 4 conclaves / seminars on various subject ranging from fundraising, teaching methodologies, general administration, etc.

Employee Morale Survey:-- For any organization to go ahead in its field of operations it is imperative that it has the pulse of the employees. To that end shelter introduced Employee Morale survey in 2012-13. The feedback has helped strengthen processes on an ongoing basis. The survey is not compulsory and confidentiality and anonymity are strictly maintained. The findings of the survey for 2011-12 and 2012-13 are compared in the table given below. It is good to note that shelterians are still strong on the sense of commitment and accountability topping the chart. It is also worth noting that despite the fact there is an overall increase in the faith for sheltera Management, the leadership quotient seems to have come down considerably. This could also be due to the fact that there has been a major change in shelter Management, and organization is still adapting to it.

Performance Management Survey:-- Performance Management Process is a means to establish a model of communications across the organization and helps all employees come on the same page as far as their performance vis a vis organizational goals are concerned. The process facilitates healthy interaction between line manager and employee. This year shelter was able to conduct only two reviews as against the norm of three due to various constraints.

In large cities in India, almost half of the population lives in informal or slum settlements, often without adequate access to the basic amenities like clean water and sanitation. The poor are a vital part of the city, yet urban planning often ignores or neglects their contribution. Shelter Associates works to prevent the marginalization of the poor by incorporating them into formal housing and urban planning systems.

Non-Formal Education- aims to provide functional literacy to women aged about 15 years and above as well as provides non- formal literacy to promote School enrolment and prevent drop-out. In addition to formal syllabus, the children are imparted training on other aspects of social life in the field of Art, Dance, Music, Yoga, Computer education, Sports, Environment awareness, health care and sanitation etc. Facility extended for Innovative Schemes for preschool education and elementary education and Condensed course School.

All religious festivals are celebrated and this helps children to understand the different religions and be more accepting of the same. Students participated in the Inter NGO Competition and won the prize for their dance performance. This not just brought in much relief to the regular caretakers but also brought in much variety in the activities and management of children. The interns have been from reputed Management Institutes as well as Social Work colleges. Volunteers from across the country have added a great value especially in building up the language skills. Credit goes to members for adding a special touch to the rehabilitation process.

2-Health, Education and livelihood Initiative-

Currently the Society also entered in the field of health education and considered as the largest service delivery NGO in this sectors in India. Its plethora of very successful interventions includes a wide spectrum of activities on Substance Abuse and HIV/AIDS that address the needs of children, women, and men, especially from communities that are marginalized and suffering from disease and poverty. The Substance Abuse facilities of the Society attract clients from various countries all over the world.

Our new educational programme is a direct response to the issues raised during our work. We collected data from more than 3,500 families, and continue to engage with local residents on a daily basis. We found that local people were asking for support that went beyond basic housing needs. More than half of the families we spoke to were cooking with biomass fuel, using dirty and unsafe traditional stoves, often in multi-storey buildings, so Shelter is now providing education in safe hygienic cooking and access to clean and efficient smokeless stoves.

With several slum pockets due to be relocated on the same site, we needed to encourage collective maintenance of the new environment. Knowing that children are effective agents of change, we set up a series of environmental workshops for young people, between 10 and 12 years of age, to help foster a sense of community and increase awareness of environmental issues.

The incredibly high percentage of families living below the poverty level has motivated our work in employment generation. This includes our successful bag initiative, in which unemployed women from different communities are being trained to earn a living wage. These are just some of the ways Shelter society is using training to provide ground-up support for our work and helping local people to participate in building a more sustainable way of life.

In case of girl child and women, the change has been constant. From a society in which women are not normally usually educated, one has been able to enroll over 60 percent girls in schools, later in vocational and university education and place them at par with the emerging social milieu and a great advantage two as dozens and more have come back for teaching, nursing and serving their own communities. In the future our graduates will snowball into emancipation and empowerment of the gender, which has remained suppressed and elusive so far.

Similarly the women in backward communities who were neglected, oppressed and exploited socially, economically and politically are now placed on a pedestal although the numbers are not large considering the population of India. Yet “small is beautiful”. The Self Help Groups of women, over four years could save and revolve the savings through inter-loaning and establishing a local community revolving fund, is an impacting environment. In the process these semi literate rural women have demonstrated leadership, community organization, collective will, mutual respect, confidence, honesty, and business acumen. Besides when they were given with microfinance to administer among themselves as Micro-credit to set up Micro enterprises, They Did It So Efficiently, That In Only Three Years They Increased The Capital To Larger Numbers And proving the banking circles wrong who felt that these illiterate and disorganized women are 'Non Bankable' and at the same time created new avenues of self-employment.

HEALTH CRE CENTRE- HIV & Aids awareness and RCH programmes are covered in different villages and community based drug distribution centres are also operated by trained health workers from among the community in different villages. Health services have focused on sensitizing women towards their health needs and promote good health seeking behavior. Health Camps have addressed people on various issues. Two hundred beneficiaries have directly benefited from the services of a gynecologist, pediatrician and general physician.

Nutrition Camps- add further impetus to the health focus as data shows high nutritional deficiencies among Indian women. pregnant and lactating women were particularly addressed by a trained dietician who also taught them to cook to retain the nutritional value of the food.

Health care programme through rch and dai traing, aids and hiv awareness and water and sanitation activities:-Since last six years we have been working in the field of Health care through R.C.H & Dai Training, HIV/Aids Awareness and Sanitation Activities. Due to poverty, people are in want of Medical assistance. Due to want of Hospital in rural areas people suffer a lot. We have started a Mobile Hospital. Due to want of fund we have not reached at our target. We think if Govt. assistance will be obtained or any other organisation will finance, we will try to serve for the people. This year also we have spent Rs. 3210/- for RCH and dai training, Rs. 3318/- for Aids and HIV awareness and Rs. 3268/ for Health care activities for health care. We are in a mind to have an Ambulance, one doctor and other staffs. Medicines will be procured to provide freely. However now we are engaged in creating health-care awareness activities. We have conducted health camp and provided dhai training to rural women for awareness to know about child health, population control, immunization, mother care and nutrition.

Environmental Consciousness—Many people use plastic bags to do their daily chores and shopping. When these bags are worn out, they are thrown away and eventually burned in trash bins. The buildup of plastic waste and the burning of trash are extremely harmful to the environment and hazardous to human health. Plastic bags are also harmful to animals that mistakenly ingest them.

The proliferation of plastic waste is not only a problem, it is a global issue. Shelter Society is working to combat the buildup of plastic waste through the use of reusable shopping bags sewn by women from the slums. The bags provide a practical alternative to plastic shopping bags and serve as a reminder to protect the environment.

SHELTER has formulated many programmes since its establishment in 2000. Out of all the programmes being implemented by the shelter today, the Family Counselling Centres programme is a flagship programme of the Shelter. The programme epitomizes the responsive nature of the Central Social Welfare Board which has always risen to the challenge of finding contemporary solutions to the emerging social problems of our time.

Under the Family Counselling Centres, women who are victims of atrocities, family maladjustment and marital discord are provided counseling and rehabilitative referral services. The centres also provide crisis intervention and trauma counseling in the aftermath of natural and manmade disasters. The FCCs create awareness in the local community and mobilize public opinion on issues affecting the status of women. They work in close collaboration with the local administration, police, courts, legal aid cells, medical and psychiatric institutions, vocational training centres and Short Stay Homes.

This directory has been developed in response to a felt need expressed by service providers for a comprehensive document that can serve as a reference in order to facilitate networking among the voluntary organizations that are implementing the programme. I am confident that this effort of the society will be of use to a wide variety of social workers, voluntary agencies and lay persons who wish to have a ready reference of the service providers in their respected areas.

Corporate Social Responsibility-

Context: With the passing of CSR law as part of Companies Act 2013, which mandates companies to spend 2% of their profits on CSR activities, companies have shown an immense interest in addressing the development needs of India. However, companies need support to identify the right causes and credible grassroots organizations engaged in social development that are effective, have capacity to scale and are oriented towards sustainability.

Being cognizant of this need, social sector intermediaries have come together to imagine an Integrated CSR Facility that will deliver end-to-end services to companies through both online and offline modes of engagement. The vision is to create an intelligent, comprehensive and standardized facility that will benefit stakeholders in the following ways:

- For companies: The facility will provide companies with action-oriented social sector intelligence and research, resources to frame a company level CSR strategy, impactful CSR programs, credible social organizations for program implementation, running cause related campaigns and employee engagement programs.
- For social organizations: The facility will house a “single profile” of social organizations that matches requirements of most companies. It will also feature successful interventions and impact figures.
- For industry bodies: The facility will provide an online platform for all member companies to undertake CSR activities, while providing opportunities to the body to offer offline services. The industry body could also use the facility to undertake its own CSR.

HOUSING PROJECTS-Secure tenure and access to housing are issues that plague the urban poor in India. In larger cities, nearly half the population lives in slums. urban slum dwellers who were residents before 1995 have the right to upgrading and re-settlement, but the process is excruciatingly slow. Most government policies and programmes simply do not address realities on the ground, and the tremendous backlog in providing housing grows every day with continuing migration to the cities.

Shelter society has endeavoured to raise these issues with the local and state Government through its projects. Our expertise in housing the poor has matured over twelve years, and we are proud to have implemented two major resettlement projects in Bhubaneswar.

One of the main obstacles of effective urban planning in India is a lack of up-to-date, comprehensive and sufficiently detailed information about urban areas. This lack of information is a major reason behind the failure of urban municipalities to include informal settlements (known as slums) in city-wide planning and urban development. In the metropolitan cities, large proportions of the urban population live in slums, but major urban projects tend to skirt around the informal city. In the absence of information and understanding of slums, these settlements are typically considered to be chaotic masses rather than coherent urban areas. They are easily ignored or are dealt with by programmes aimed specifically at slums, not recognising them as integral parts of the city.

To address this, Shelter society has been working over the last few years to develop the use of slum surveys and Geographical Information Systems (GIS) for collating information about slums for inclusive urban planning. Since early 2000, Shelter society has worked on projects in Bhubaneswar and cuttack city of odisha state that aim to introduce slum surveys and GIS as tools for integrating low-income settlements into urban planning and development

City wide slum housing project-The Integrated Housing and Slum Development Programme (IHSDP) has been introduced by the Government of India (GOI) for the purpose of slum improvement in cities and towns under the Jawaharlal Nehru Urban Renewal Mission (JNNURM). The critical objective of the IHSDP scheme is to strive for holistic slum development with a healthy and enabling urban environment by providing adequate shelter with security of tenure and basic infrastructure facilities to the slum dwellers of the identified urban areas. Shelter society as a consultant to submit a proposal to the Government of India in February 2009 under the IHSDP scheme for the rehabilitation of almost half of the urban areas slum population in an integrated housing and infrastructure scheme.

The unique feature of Shelter Associates proposal was its citywide perspective for slum improvement and the use of Geographic Information Systems (GIS) software and remote sensing technology . This approach means that the land, which is a finite government resource, is used optimally to ensure that the maximum number of slums dwellers are provided with security of tenure, housing, and essential services within their current neighbourhood and are not relegated to the edge of the city which lacks services (transport, water and drainage) and drives them deeper into poverty. This planned approach, with great consideration for 'origins and destinations' of the slums to be relocated, ensured that the communities were not far removed from their current places of work or other social amenities like schools, health centres, emergency services, markets, etc.

Shelter Society designed four story 'walk-up' social housing, which would rehabilitate the existing slum dwellers on the site as well as create an extra housing stock that could absorb the neighbouring slums that require relocation. The GOI approved this project as a special case for its innovative, holistic and inclusive citywide approach which uses technology to plan sensitively and could potentially be replicable in other cities' attempts to be 'slum free'.

Introduction-

It is very important to have a shelter for every one of his own. Studies also reveal that scarcity of housing units is there in the country. Surprisingly, the shortage is mainly for the people belonging to the moderate income group and the lower income group, people who cannot afford a home of their own. The demand for low cost homes in India has set the stage for the housing projects meant for the ones who have limited earnings. Low cost housing in India offer housing options, since real estate builders and developers in India are building housing projects in different cities and of different categories, you can choose your option depending on your requirement and budget.

Constructing low cost housing in India, there are 2 ways in which low cost homes and middle income group can be helped out. It has been observed that builders and developers either undertake housing projects that are entirely meant for the LIG or MIG or undertake housing projects which cater to all income groups. For instance, if a real estate builder constructs apartments and independent villas in a particular area, he can build housing units of different budget.

A latest trend that is being observed in the housing market is that more and more real estators are trying to use energy efficient materials in their projects. Prior to buying low cost homes in India, it is important to find out whether they abide by the construction guidelines and safety requirements.

Consultancy preferred to construct a house of Rs 2 Lakhs budget

We appreciate your effort in trying to construct a house of Rs 2 Lakhs budget. Before you embark on this mission, do prepare mentally for the extra hard work you need to put in planning and budgeting all the activities to be performed right from design stage to completion.

First, what you need is a very cost effective design that incorporates all your requirements without over-utilizing space or structural elements. The design has to be worked and re-worked until it is Cost-effectively Optimized. Take extra time and effort in finalizing the design.

The next step is to decide on the materials to be used. With a constrained budget, you cannot afford to have a margin of error. Find the most cost-effective building materials in your area. It would vary depending on the location of your residence. Eg- Laterite Stones are Cost Effective in the North Kerala Malabar Region. Do research on the most cost-effective wood, flooring, roofing and other materials in your region.

Study your Site Conditions to avoid any unexpected future setbacks. Do make sure that the Site did not previously have wells, ponds or clay fields that were filled without proper soil consolidation. Use the most appropriate foundation depending on the soil condition.

Appoint a Contractor who has previous experience in Low-Cost House Construction. You may contact the local branch of Cost-effective Construction Agencies like Nirmiti, Costford, Habitat etc. Have long and extensive discussions with the Contractor and be very clear about the various stages of construction and the time and cost incurred at each stage.

Once Construction starts, stick to the schedule without a break in the work. Any delay may further increase the cost and material wastage. In short, constructing your residence on a tight budget requires meticulous planning and execution.

SANITATION PROJECTS-

Shelter society relationship with the communities living in the slums, and informal settlements has given an insight into how a lack of access to sanitation has a detrimental impact on health and safety.

- Community toilet blocks are frequently in a poor condition and the queuing at peak times can be frustrating and inconvenient for the community.
- Defecating out in the open can expose people to health risks and safety risks - disease, sexual harassment and physical assault.
- Many women and girls restrict their intake of food and drink to lessen the likelihood that they will need to go to the toilet. This impacts their health, cognitive development and, if they are pregnant, also impacts the health and development of the unborn child.

Shelter society relationship with the local government, especially the local administration ward offices has also indicated that there is:

- (1) A severe lack of information regarding the extent and condition of current sanitation services;
- (2) A lack of clarity as to how to apply the objectives of the city's sanitation planning policy document; and
- (3) A unsustainable large financial burden placed on the ward offices to maintenance the community toilets in its administration ward.

Shelter society have worked on access to sanitation since 2000, and have successfully implemented innovative projects. Community toilets have been built which include accommodation for a caretaker and a biogas system which converts the gases generated by the human excrement into a usable energy source for the caretaker and a few families in the communities; these community toilets are still in good condition over a decade after completion and hand-over to the community. More recently Shelter moved towards a vision of 'one home-one toilet' to link sanitation funds, available through private donation, with families living in slums or informal settlements without toilets. The vision of 'one home-one toilet' is for every family to have access to reducing the financial burden on the administrative ward office (freeing up funds for other sanitation infrastructure), and reducing the instances of open defecation (and all associated violations of a persons health and safety).

City wide slum sanitation project-This project was proposed to receive funds for sanitation. The projects aim is to advocate for 'one home one toilet' by producing an individual sanitation project which will challenge the Government of India's stolid sanitation policy of only providing community toilets. While individual toilets do appear in Pune's sanitation policy document, the City Sanitation Plan (CSP), there are no funds allocated against individual toilets in the section which describes the allocation of sanitation funds. Shelter is working to establish a pragmatic individual sanitation model which addresses the health and safety issues associated with open defecation, and the maintenance issues associated with community toilets, that will be adopted by the Government of India and implemented across India.

This project builds on previous experience of providing toilet in slums and informal communities and includes all of the same interventions which produce long-lasting and tangible change; data and stakeholder support. The collected data is organisation on a GIS platform accurate profile of the slum, administrative ward and city. This profile is used to identify the most vulnerable settlements in the administrative ward and target sanitation funds. Concurrent to the data collection, organisation and analysis process is the process of stakeholder support.

The Beneficiaries of the project discussing the benefits of having their own toilet, and the work of Shelter.

Over the next 3 years Shelter will be providing 1,500 individual toilets across the 15 administrative wards of Bhubaneswar will be provided in one or two pilot slums in each administrative ward. Shelter will also establish a refuse collection system to complement the individual toilets and provide a holistic solution to the slums principal sanitation issues: (1) open defecation/ineffective community toilets, and (2) solid waste management.

These interventions are proceeded with an extensive data collection and data analysis stage, first at the scale of the slum (obtaining slum level data for all eligible slums within the 15 wards – totalling to over 400 slums), and then at the scale of the household and individual family members (obtaining household and family member data for all houses/families within the pilot slums). The slum level data is collected by Shelter Associates at the administrative ward offices and verified on site with the assistance of the slum community and the administrative ward offices engineers, and the household level data is collected by the Shelter members of the community trained by Shelter it has been found that when members of the community are involved in the data collection the data tends to be more accurate.

This extensive data set lets the most vulnerable slums in each administrative ward to be identified, and allows the most vulnerable families within the vulnerable slums to be recognised. This collected data is the foundation of a pragmatic response ensuring feasibility of interventions and efficient use of funds. Part of this project is to make the data set available as part of a toolkit which will allow the administrative ward officers to priorities their own sanitation spending.

To support the physical interventions within the slums, and the establishment of a refuse collection system, Shelter will also conduct community meetings, workshops, and focus group discussions to: (1) build a rapport with the community members, (2) to communicate health and hygiene messages, (3) to discuss and understand the issues which they face in relation to defecating out in the open, and (4) to communicate and build support for the physical interventions.

The Toilet Revolution Comes to More Basti...

Submitted by Shelter on Thu, 01/23/2014 - 13:20

Project: City-wide slum sanitation project.

Successful revolutions happen quietly....it makes inroads into the lives of all those who are willing to make the change, for those who believe it will impact their lives. The revolution is a big step for the families here, and giant step for society.

More Vasti, a disadvantaged community in Bhubaneswar, called a slum by traditional standards. Today, the residents of More Vasti have taken a stand, one that will ensure healthier environment and far better quality of life.

Member of the community handing over her share for her own toilet in her own home.

The Shelter “One Home.... One Toilet”, reality.

Why is this a revolution, some may askbecause residents of the area have invested in what many there would call a dream. Many other residents here are joining this toilet revolution.

This is an area with a community toilet, which many find difficult to visit. Dirty, to the point of being disgusting, it brought no true relief. And think of sheer indignity of having to defecate in the open! The health benefits to the residents and all those who live around are enormous.

An investment into a toilet is about changing mind sets. It is about bringing dignity, empowerment and health. The 30% invested by the dwellers there, and 70% by Shelter is not about toilets...it is about change, hope, and an investment to a healthy future.

#Sponsor A Toilet

You can support Shelter Society “One Home,One Toilet” vision for India by sponsoring an individual toilet for a family living in an informal community. These individual toilets are made available to the beneficiary family on a cost sharing basis where the slum family contribute a third of the cost. Please Contact us for further details.In India You can send a cheque to our Head office.Shelter Society thanks you for your interest and generosity. While collecting data from the slums , Shelter noticed that among the urban poor, women were far less likely to be employed than men. When they were employed, their jobs were often poorly paid, precarious, and unsafe. But those who had jobs were in the minority: most women were unemployed and had no means of supporting themselves or their families.

Research and poverty Mapping(city slum profile)-One of the main obstacles of effective urban planning in India is the lack of up-to-date, comprehensive and detailed information. Municipalities fail to include informal settlements in city-wide planning and urban development. Major projects tend to skirt around these areas, which are often seen as chaotic masses rather than understood as neighbourhoods in their own right. When these settlements are not ignored altogether, planning approaches rarely treat them as integral parts of the city.

Shelter society has been working to promote inclusive urban planning since early 2000 to introduce slum surveys and Geographical Information Systems (GIS) as tools for integrating low-income settlements into urban planning and development. We use our research directly in our own field projects, and also to help inform local government policies. Connecting research with needs-based interventions leads to better solutions and the possibility of large-scale projects. An important part of our work comprises studies of poor people in urban settings. This is not academic research, but the study of existing situations carried out by the poor themselves, and is in keeping with our joint philosophy of validating the existence of the poor living in cities.

Our own research and documentation ranges from film documentaries, photographs and one-page flyers, to in-depth analysis and documentation of settlements, including physical land use and socio-economic factors. Extensive primary research and accessible reporting heightens awareness about slum areas and their residents, and this, in turn, improves levels of participation and the sustainability of projects. All our study material directly feeds into our work, and the information is also made available to stakeholders for planning projects and impacting policy.

The Sanitation Project is one example of how our research and development work influences outcomes in the field. Another is the Poverty-Mapping and Redevelopment Project, which shows how research can be used to increase outreach to communities and create a comprehensive list of policies for stakeholders to choose from. Governments, NGO-CBOs, and communities can then consider the options jointly and weigh possible outcomes.

The women in the slums desperately need a way to support themselves and their families. Shelter Society is working to provide them with a sustainable way of earning an income. Shelter Society decided to help by starting an income generation project. In considering potential projects, they looked for one that would help the women but would also be environmentally sensitive. Shelter had long been aware of the buildup of plastic waste and, through developing the Bag Project, found a way to help women in the slums and improve the environment. In the slums, only 30% of women are employed, compared to almost 70% in the slums. The project involves teaching women how to sew reusable shopping bags out of old sarees and discarded fabric. Shelter is currently exploring different markets for the bags, both locally and abroad. The money generated from the bags will provide the women with a consistent and sustainable means of support. The project also allows the women to stitch the bags at home, so that they do not have to leave their children to find work. The bags serve as a practical alternative to plastic shopping bags and promote a cleaner and healthier environment. various projects Find out how to volunteer with us here.

Self Help Groups and Micro Finance- Engineering Emancipation through SHGs – Shelter's doorway to women empowerment:-

Shelter's initiatives in Gender Equity through Micro Finance began as early as 2004. The program has grown manifold over the years with the financial support of the Social welfare Board. Today, a total of 200 SHGs have been formed with 33 new SHGs formed in the year 2009-2010. With each new group, a few more women find their voice and identity as they move towards self-reliance and empowerment of new members who were enrolled, taking the total number of members to 300 given out as loans, and a repayment of made by the SHG members during the financial year. Apart from financial achievements and increasing the role of women in household finances, the SHGs have been critical in acting as a conduit for integrated community development programmes. SHG staff and members had a yearlong calendar of activities and workshops that focused on issues of alcoholism, early marriage, female feticide, reproductive child health, sanitation, hygiene and domestic violence. This has had a direct impact on the quality of life of the communities. A marked change in attitudes towards education has emerged. A majority of the girls in the SHG families are in the school system and the women members are also becoming literate in order to conduct transactions and other SHG functions. Shelter staff has motivated members to join the pulse polio programme and avail family planning facilities and institutional deliveries. The beneficiaries have directly availed services of health camps organized by Shelter. Women attended the celebration of Women's Day organized by the SHG and Micro Finance Project. The development of overall linkages has seen an increase in the number of people taking advantage of institutions like Hospitals Schools, Banks, Panchayats etc, with an increased awareness of citizens' rights regarding these. Impact assessment

Training-Currently, Shelter Society is focusing on training women who already have a basic knowledge of sewing. Shelter Society teaches these women how to make the bags by building on the skills they already have. Being able to earn a consistent income and help support their families gives the women confidence, increased independence, and a stronger voice in family and community decisions. Shelter Society is also working on a more comprehensive training programme that will be targeted towards women with no prior knowledge of sewing. This programme will teach the women basic sewing skills, with which they can learn how to make the bags. The programme will also teach the women the other aspects of the Bag Project, including how to collect used discarded fabric, how to recruit and train other women to sew the bags, and how to sell them in local markets. With this programme, the women will have all of the information they need to run the project themselves.

Awareness Generation Programme AGP) for women Through Vocational Training and Micro Finance (Vocational Education Course Enrolment)- Cutting & Tailoring, Beauty & Culture, In addition to providing the training, the GRC also provides forward and backward linkages with Banks and Financial Institution and Government Schemes such as Swarn Jayanti Shahari Rozgar Yojana (SJSRY), Rashtriya Mahila Kosh etc.

It had requested in the year 2004-05 to the State Social Welfare Board for financial assistance for conducting a AGP program. In this response State Social Welfare Board, sanctioned vide their letter No.5981 dtd.25-11-04 for grant of Rs10000/- for conducting AGP program for women. As per advice vide their letter No3975 dtd.22-09-05 we deputed our representative Miss Jogamaya Mahapatra for undergoing organizers training under Viswa Jeevan Seva Sangha, Khurda. She completed her organiser's training during the period 29-09-05 to 08-10-05. Then we requested State Social Welfare Board for release of sanctioned amount. The State Social Welfare Board released first installment of Rs9000/-(Rupees nine thousand) only. The organizer Miss Johamaya Mahapatra, conducted survey in different places at Nayapalli and identified 25 women beneficiaries and round up discussions were made with them and our representative also described them about present day situations and present day to day problem of women and also about need of the camp. Camp was conducted for 8 days from 15-03-06 to 22-03-06 followed by 2 days follow up camp. Women groups are consulted and awareness training was provided. SHG group promotion proposal was accepted by the members. Immediately 2 SHG groups are formed and it has been decided to strengthen them for business and promotion of financial condition of poor women. Through this AGP programme basic idea has been obtained and women are provided awareness training to know about right, safety and security of women. It was decided by the Organisation to conduct more awareness programme for welfare of women and children. In the year 2005-2006 this Organisation was awarded for grant of an amount of Rs50,000/- by the Central Social Welfare Board, New Delhi and organised five AGP meetings for welfare and awareness of women. In this connection, Organisation has organized different survey activities and small village-level meetings in different places and office bearers have gone training for the purpose. It has been observed that this programme has created more awareness among women –how they will protect themselves from different Social evils and bindings. Very soon programme shall be conducted and different resource persons had been invited to aware the women. Our Organisation has taken this programme as a mile stone and promised to work for promotion of women and child. We have formed women SHG federations for their empowerment and financial condition.

SC,ST,OBC,SEBC,Other wise able, Minorities and distress Welfare -In our state most of areas covered with hills and forest. In those areas our people are staying. They are not educated and depend upon forests. Now-a-days forests are cut down. Restrictions are imposed. They are not in a position to take different forest goods for their livelihood. They are day by day becoming poor. In most cases due to poverty, drought they are loosing their land and village. They sale themselves as bonded labour. They are incapable to build a house for their existence. We will construct low cost house under our project and settle them in a good family atmosphere. This year we have spent Rs. 3456.00 for SC & ST awareness. On the other hand Horizons are generally poor. They are depending in daily labor. So they do not involve them in the National development race. Hence national/countries alround develop is not at all possible in spite of Govt. Social Development Activities. We have therefore opened such a unit to work for welfare and upliftment of Harizan and Girizans who want Govt.assistance. The method of achievement of allround development of villagers is our movement. The villagers should be self sufficient and independent on their daily usages and needs. Small scale production units on the basis of co-dependent on each other should be evolved to provide work to a large number of hands and profit shall flow into the pockets of single entrepreneur. Not only the production but also use of all these materials should be popularized among countrymen. Economic liberty, social, political, organizational independencies is urged. It has been decided to establish a vocational training centre. In this centre local un-employed individuals shall be provided Vocational Training. In other hand those who are in distress and helpless shall be allowed to stay in this Vocational-cum-rehabilitation centre. This will be a assistance centre for women, disable, old person, Distress, SC & ST. In this centre rural technology shall be promoted people will be trained how to promote agriculture. Agricultural development how will be developed shall be our ultimate aim. All the production shall be marketed.

Empowering Illiterate SC/OBC poor women and Children and their capacity development activity through education and vocational training-

Introduction:

SHELTER is all about doing well to the mankind and also to the society through many ways. Making them self sufficient and capable to fight against all odds that they come across in a day-to-day life. The society is facing a lot of problem due to uneducated women especially in the SC community. They hardly find themselves cope with the routine work that need some education. Educating them would be a great & noble work, so that they can make themselves self sustained and independent. In this project we are going to put down some very important and interesting parts which would help the person in getting it implemented with much ease. Sections are Motivation, Project summary, Project details, Conclusion & Reference (if any).

Motivation:

The history:

Since the independence much has been talked about the education but till date hardly any of those have been met. So this is a very catch segment that needs to be focused now. Problem could be myth and being poor and from a section of the society where untouchability still prevail.

Why it is to be concerned?

It is indeed an interest to be concerned, because there are many schemes are floated by the Govt. for the betterment of these community but seldom they get it. Very few organisations are working for this community as most of the organisations are bound by rituals and customs lay down by the then elderly people.

Why this problem prevails?

It is there and also remaining as no other community people prefer to go to their place and teach. Because the fear of getting boycotted from the society.

Is the problem already solved? What has been done so far?

Yes, the problem still exists. Due to lack of proper education, literacy among these communities is very poor. Though the Govt. is doing lot of things but the takers are not willing to accept as the imparters are of no good. Govt. has made it compulsory for all but still the parents need to be counseled to send their children and women to get the proper education.

Are there any similar systems or solutions to the one you propose? If so, reference and very briefly explain them.

I am not sure whether any similar solution has ever been practiced by any agencies, Govt. or not.

Are there any possible improvements to current solutions?

Yes, creating awareness and the importance of education in day-to-day life. If women of the society are not educated then we can not expect the future generation to be educated.

Project Summary

What in general will this project achieve?

This project is designed in such a way that it will not only educate the women folks of the community but also develop a self confidence among them. They can pass on the knowledge to their children and make them educated. And also they can force their children to go to school and can create their better future. These also enhance their livelihood in many ways.

Project Details

Architecture and Environment

Describe the project environment

The project will be based on personal interaction and rapport building among the community to see the benefit of the project.

A prior field study is to be done to know the mind set of the people and, whether any organisation had touched the area in the past or not. If yes, then what was the result?

Adequately equipped with all the training material and the necessary things can run the show smoothly. Language is another barrier, which sometimes forces the people to withdraw from the programme, so using local language and the same dialect would attract the people to participate in maximum number and get the benefit.

Another important area is the “organisation”, who is working there(?), or whether any body have done some work in the targeted area or not, whether people of that locality have accepted him and treated him as one amongst them or not.

Software, hardware, or tools to be used

This depends on the audience and the locality. Because it has to be tailor-made and should be very appropriate to make them understand what exactly we are trying to convey through this, otherwise the whole project will be of no use.

Implementation Issues and Challenges

What will be the most difficult issues and challenges in the implementation?

The most difficult issues are making them understand the importance of education and the need of it in today's world. This is not a necessity but essential for their survival. Another challenge is to send the children to school for their education, because they are in the tendency of not going to school as their parents are not educated and so they don't see the worth of it. Rather they prefer to engage them in the work to earn a living in this tender age.

How are you using or extending current tools/systems for your problem?

There are many ways to get the tools or systems work for the benefit of the community or the target audience. After having done a thorough survey different tools should be used. The survey will clearly indicate what tool is to be used to get the job done.

What makes your project unique?

A single way of implementation could see the negative result but when a multiple ways are implemented, there has to be some result that could show at the end of it. And also it will make an interesting scenario for the participant or the audience to believe.

Deliverables

What will the project produce?

The outcome of the project will compel the community to follow the system and see the change that could bring in their life, for which they were longing years together. They also will feel the change by opting for the schemes floated by the Govt. which were implemented by the organisation. They also will know about the benefit of the awareness.

Describe in relative detail the features of each of the project's products.

While doing the survey they will be curious to know what exactly the organisation is going to do. And may be at the first instance there could be some hesitance from them but later on they will cooperate.

Printed leaflets – it will allow them to see and understand what they can do, if they become educated.

One-to-One interaction – it will not allow them to feel left out. Every one in the community will feel their importance and hence they will show the interest in allowing the project to take place.

Group Discussion – this will allow them to take out their need that they are in need of. It also will make them feel that they are listened properly and with importance. If any excellent idea comes out of it and implied by the organisation, it will make them feel that they are also worth for some change.

Leader – while implementing the project if there is one among them, then s/he will feel that they can change the community without the help of outsiders. They have the ability and it needs to be stimulated.

You may wish to separate deliverables into phases and indicate optional components given time.

Creating different groups to show their ability to fight against the problem will show some results and also the way to get out of it will emerge from it.

The community is unaware of their ability, they have the solution, it only needs to be identified and implemented.

Emphasize what your project contributes or achieves!

The project after proper implementation will achieve the target that has been set by it. It will definitely see the people following after having benefited from it; at least they could understand and believe.

Timeline

Provide an estimated timeline of project deliverables and important dates.

It has to be tailor-made keeping in view of the target audience and the type of people for whom the project is going to be implemented.

Conclusion

Summarize the project including the problem, motivation, and proposed solution, and re-state important (planned) contributions.

In order to utilise information, it must be accessible. Accessibility includes both documentation of available data and tools for accessing the data. Unity provides a tool that can assist with the documentation of SURVEY accessible data and with the retrieval of the information. However, with a poorly documented multi-valued database system with a lack of information available via SURVEY, these tools may not be enough. This project will provide some extensions to Unity that will allow it to work with a multi-valued database system. Additionally, this project will research additional steps and programs to help increase the availability of information via SURVEY.

A regular interactive session will motivate them to follow the process to get the maximum output from this project.

Solution and Duration could be adjusted according to the strength of the target audience.
